

Renaturalization Project The KLRA selected an area of shoreline near the South Kabshe dam that had been thrown up in building the dam and used local grasses and flowers to make it look like a natural shoreline. This model of renaturalization has survived and flourished as the pictures show.